BIOGRAPHICAL/HISTORICAL NOTE

The American Psychological Association (APA) was founded at Clark University in 1892 for the advancement of psychology as a science. The association was incorporated in 1925 in Washington, DC. The APA is the largest scientific and professional organization representing psychology in the United States and is the world's largest association of psychologists. The APA's membership includes more than 155,000 researchers, educators, clinicians, consultants, and students. Through its divisions in 50 subfields of psychology and affiliations with 59 state, territorial, and Canadian provincial associations, APA works to advance psychology as a science, as a profession, and as a means of promoting human welfare. Division 40 (Clinical Neuropsychology) petitioned for recognition in 1995, and was sanctioned in 1996.
