Biographical/Historical Note

Captain Francis Surget (d.1856) was a planter and land speculator whose extensive holdings in Louisiana, Mississippi, and Arkansas and whose ownership of over 10,000 slaves made him one of the largest planters and slaveholders of the antebellum South. His children included sons Lenox, Francis Jr., and Eustace and daughters Sarah, Jane and Catherine Surget.

Scope and Content Note

Papers pertain to the management of Surget's estate in Natchez. They include legal and financial documents concerning heirs, payment of debts, and appraisals and sales of land. Many of the papers are signed by George Hancock, Esq., an agent of the Surget estate. Four volumes in the collection pertain to the management of Surget's properties in Mississippi, and a typescript copy of an account book contains an examination and appraisal of lands in Arkansas belonging to the estate.

Collection Description

The collection consists of papers and volumes pertaining to the estate of Francis Surget. The majority is made up of various legal and financial documents including notes for Surget's will, promissory notes crediting the account of the Surget estate, and checks and promissory notes to Surget's heirs (1850-1855). Also included are written testimonies from each of the beneficiaries stating they received the amount allotted to them in the will (1857). These beneficiaries include Catherine Surget Shields, Sarah Surget Davis, Eustace Surget, Lenox Surget, Eliza Surget, Francis Surget, and Jane Surget Merrill. Many of the documents concern the appraisal and sale of land in the estate (1859) while a number address payment for the services of George Hancock, Esq., an agent of the Surget estate (1858-1862). Other letters concern the nonpayment of a debt to H.D. Green (1860), fees of the Adams Probate Court Officer Clerk, bills for state, county, and war taxes in Arkansas (1862), and the collection of debts owed to the estate (1864-1865). A number of Concordia Parish Bonds are included, each for approximately $180 (1867), as is a letter regarding payment by the Surget estate to the heirs of Dr. Ker (undated).

In addition to these documents, the collection also contains five volumes. Four of these are bank books containing financial records of the Surget estate in Mississippi (1848-1866) and the fifth is a typescript copy of an account book containing an examination and appraisal of lands in Arkansas belonging to the estate of Surget (1857). The appraisal includes the value of each tract per acre, the aggregate value, and descriptions and sizes of each tract. The volume is signed by George Hancock and by the commissioners appointed by the executors of Surget's estate at Helena, Arkansas.
